

I wasn't expecting Green Bay Packers quarterback Aaron Rodgers to fire back at Brett Favre. Were you? In the four seasons since he replaced Favre as the Packers' starter, nfl jersey sales, I don't think Rodgers has uttered a single negative word about Favre. (Neutral, custom nfl jersey, yes. Negative? No way.) So why would he start now?

During a radio appearance this week, Favre gave a typically meandering answer to a relatively straightforward question about Rodgers winning the Super Bowl with the Packers last season. It included some portions that could be interpreted as passive-aggressive shots, among them an implication that Rodgers has so much talent around him that he should have won the Super Bowl earlier than 2010.

Here's what Rodgers told Wisconsin reporters Wednesday, nike football jersey, oregon ducks authentic football jersey, new giants jerseys, via Jason Wilde of ESPNMilwaukee.com: "You know what? I'm just, 2012 new nfl jerseys, nfl youth jerseys, the only thing I want to say is I'm just really proud of our guys and what our team did last season. It was a great accomplishment. It took all 53 of those guys and obviously it got the attention of a lot of people and we're proud of the fact that we achieved the ultimate goal as a team."

Asked if he thought Favre's comments were disrespectful, Rodgers said: "You know what? Again, football practice jersey, I'm just going to say I was really proud of our team. It takes 53 guys to win a championship. We had the right recipe last year and we're trying to do that same thing this season."

Story over, as far as I'm concerned.

If you want help deciding what you think about this issue, new nfl nike jerseys, First Take analysts Skip Bayless and Stephen A. Smith offer it in the video below.

Icon SMITamba Hali, pink hockey jersey, army football jersey, discount football jerseys, Jamaal Charles and Philip Rivers all earned honors for their performances in 2010. Although the success of the four AFC West teams was mixed -- Kansas City and Oakland made strides while San Diego and Denver both took steps back -- there were several strong individual performances by players on every team in the division.

Let's take a look at our 2010 season awards:

MVP

Jamaal Charles, Kansas City

Why: There are many reasons why the Chiefs -- who won a total of 10 games in the three previous seasons -- won 10 games and their first AFC West championship in seven years, but the play of Charles was the biggest. He was second in the NFL with 1,467 rushing yards, and he led the NFL with a 6.4 per-carry average. Kansas City had the No.1 ranked run offense in the NFL. Charles was the spark plug to this improved offense. Charles was the most exciting player on the division winner.

Offensive Player of the year

Philip Rivers, San Diego

Why: Rivers had a huge 2010 season. Rivers, nike pro combat, who turned 29 in December, new nfl jerseys, is in his prime and continues to get better. He threw for an NFL high 4,710 yards. He is the AFC Pro Bowl starter. Had the Chargers, texas a&m football jersey, who dipped from 13-3 in 2009 to 9-7 in 2010 and were out of the playoffs for the first time in five years, had a better overall record, fighting sioux hockey jersey, Rivers would have been a strong NFL MVP candidate.

Defensive player of the year

Tamba Hali, Kansas City

Why: Hali had been a favorite of scouts, college football jerseys, but with little fanfare -- until 2010. Hali flourished in the 3-4 system of Kansas City's new defensive coordinator, boston college hockey jersey, nike nfl shop, Romeo Crennel. Hali led the AFC with 14.5 sacks. He is a dominant player. While players like Oakland's Nnamdi Asomugha and Richard Seymour and San Diego's Shaun Phillips all had strong seasons, no one defensive player in the AFC West had an impact on his team's overall defense as much as Hali did. He is a free agent, hockey jersey display case, and the Chiefs will probably either give him the franchise tag or a long-term contract.

Coach of the year

Todd Haley, purdue football jersey, Kansas City

Why: Haley led the Chiefs to a worst-to-first turnaround. Few expected the Chiefs, who were 4-12 in Haley's first season, to make such a fast turnaround. Haley will probably be a candidate to win the NFL coach of the year award when it's announced Wednesday. There's no other choice in the AFC West.

Comeback player of the year

Brandon Lloyd, Denver

Why: Lloyd had an astounding season after being inactive for 14 games in 2009. In 2010, at the age of 29, montreal canadiens hockey jersey, womens nfl jersey dresses, nfl nike pro combat uniforms, the former journeyman had a career year. He led the NFL with 1, customize your own nfl jersey, 448 receiving yards. He gained first downs on 72 of 77 of his catches, which was a 93.5 percentage. It was the highest first-down percentage of any receiver in the NFL in the past 10 seasons.

Offensive rookie of the year

Tony Moeaki, womens nfl jersey, Kansas City

Why: The Kansas City tight end became one of Matt Cassel's favorite targets. He had 47 catches for 556 yards and three touchdowns. Moeaki's rookie season production far exceeded the rookie-season production of former Kansas City superstar tight end Tony Gonzalez. I'm not saying Moeaki -- a third-round pick from Iowa -- will have a career like Gonzalez's, nike uniforms nfl, but he was terrific. Moeaki can split the field and he has soft hands.

Defensive rookie of the year

Eric Berry, Kansas City

Why: Berry was as advertised when he entered the draft out of Tennessee. Usually, nike pro combat uniforms nfl, throwback nhl jerseys, safeties are not considered at the top of the draft, auburn football jersey, but Berry was considered a game changer and he delivered as a rookie. The No. 5 pick of a strong draft was an instant impact player in Kansas City. He is a playmaker and an intelligent anchor to a young defense. This week, cheap nfl jerseys, he is making the first of what should be many Pro Bowl appearances.

Executive of the year

Scott Pioli, Kansas City

Why: Like Haley, Nike NFL uniforms leaked, replica NFL jerseys, Pioli deserves a lot of credit for Kansas City's turnaround. This is suddenly a strong roster, built for the immediate future and for down the road. In two seasons as Kansas City's general manager, Pioli has made the right calls and has built a strong roster. His work in free agency and the draft in 2010 coupled with the development of Cassel -- who was acquired in 2009 -- make Pioli the easy choice.

Specialist of the year

Jacoby Ford, wholesale authentic NFL jerseys, Oakland

Why: Ford had three kickoff returns for touchdowns in an eight-week stretch. I expect Ford, a fourth-round pick in 2010, to become one of the game's most dynamic players as soon as 2011. The fastest player at the combine last year, Chicago Bears jersey, Ford is a threat to bring the ball to the house every time he touches it. Expect him to get a chance to return punts in 2011 as well as becoming a primary receiving target, Cheap Nike NFL Jerseys, Nike NFL store, which he was toward the end of the season. This is a special talent.
